

Bobcats

Wild Yet Wonderfully Near Us!

Join naturalist Sue Morse for a fascinating, fun, and visually stunning slide show and lecture about Vermont wildlife. While the focus will be on bobcats, learn about other mammals, birds, amphibians and reptiles that live here, as well as the habitat they need to survive and thrive. Sue Morse, founder of Keeping Track, an organization devoted to training professional biologists and citizen scientists in wildlife monitoring skills, will illustrate how we can enhance our understanding and appreciation for our local wildlife while protecting critical wildlife habitat in our woods through forest management.
